- A large, translucent, bowl-shaped sculpture by Jannis Krieger. The sculpture is composed of many vertical, slightly curved ridges that create a textured, almost crystalline appearance. It is covered in numerous small, dark, circular indentations or holes, giving it a perforated look. The sculpture is placed on a highly reflective surface, which creates a clear mirror image of the object below it. The entire piece is set against a solid black background, which emphasizes its form and texture.
